FIND DEFICIT IN FUNDS FOR THE NEW WATER PLANT

Difference Between Cash on Hand and Bills to Be Paid Is Estimated at $13,914

MAY BORROW FROM SINKING FUND

Suggested that Deficit Be Made Up and Repaid from the Tax Levy Next Year

NEW STREET CAR ORDINANCE

Cars Will Stop on Near Side and Halt at Each Corner Downtown if the Kohn Measure Passes

The city of La Crosse faces a deficit of a little less than $14,000 in the water construction fund for the completion of the new water plant.

This became known at the council meeting last night, when Chairman Paul Mahoney of the special water committee, read his monthly report. He said that the approaching deficit had been called to his attention by Comptroller William Fries.

Deficit is $13,914

The comptroller has prepared figures showing that the total cost of completing the new water plant, will be $21,467. To pay this, the city has on hand $7,553. The difference is $13,914.

No solution was suggested by Alderman Mahoney in his report, which was referred to the finance committee and the special water comittees.

In view of the fact, however, that there are on hand no funds which can be transferred to the special water fund, it has been suggested that the city borrow the amount necessary to meet the deficit from the sinking fund, and replace it from the tax levy next year. This solution will be considered by the committees to which the Mahoney report was referred.

In addition to the deficit in the special water fund, Comptroller Fries today announced that the operating expense fund of the water fund is nearly exhausted.

In the budget last year $18,000 was appropriated to run the department for the year. About $4,000 now remains. This will be exhausted by August 1, according to Mr. Fries. He estimates that an additional $10,000 will be required to keep up the department until November 1, when the new budget is made up.

For Safety to Passengers

An ordinance framed to prevent injury of persons alighting from street cars by passing autos or motorcycles was introduced last night by Alderman Frank Kohn. The ordinance provides that all street cars in the city shall stop on the near side of the street corners, and that on Main street from Third to Sixth streets, and on Third and Fourth streets from State to Jay streets, all cars shall come to a full stop before crossing the intersection.

Purchasing Board Measure

A substitute purchasing commission ordinance, to replace the measure held contradictory to the city charter, was introduced and referred to committees last night. The measure provides, as in the first measure, that the mayor, city clerk and comptroller shall act as a purchasing commission, but it also provides that the actual purchasing of supplies shall be done through the board of public works, as required by the terms of the charter.

The council meeting last night was marked by wordy tilts on two affairs of minor importance. The first was a clash over a bid for sewer construction, which was reported by the sewer committee. In the advertisement for the bid, a certain stretch of sewer on Mill stret had been included, but in the contractor's bid no mention was made of this work.

Report Sent Back

Alderman Mahoney protested so strenuously against accepting the bid with the Mill street portion left out, that the report and bid were referred back to the sewer committee for investigation.

The second fuss involved a bill for $23, put in by Fred Gollnick, 405 Caledonia street, for refund from the city. He claims that he paid for a house connection from the sewer laid past his home on Caledonia street, and that when he came to connect his house with sewer he was unable to find such connection.

"Rider" Refuses Contracts

The sewer had been laid by Thill-Manning-Whalen company, and in the resolution recommending that unless the plumbing company footed the bill for the refund, they be refused any further city contracts.

Alderman B. C. Smith started opposition to the resolution and a number of other aldermen joined in.

Torrance Smooths Row

The fight was waxing hot when Alderman Torrance called attention to the fact that the Thill-Manning-Whalen company had offered to refund the money the company had received if it was shown that the Gollnick house connection had been overlooked.

Alderman Mahoney then moved that the clause concerning shutting

REPORTS OF STORMY MEETING ARE DENIED

Conflicting stories and rumors have been afloat today regarding the meeting of the Farmers' Co-operative Packing company, being held in the offices of Baldwin and Bosshard.

Senator Otto Bosshard denied positively that there was any discord in the meeting, or that there was a heated discussion over anything.

A rumor on the streets to the effect that a strong movement was on foot among the directors to throw into the discard the plan to buy the Langdon-Boyd Packing plant for $120,000, and substitute the old abbatoir plant on the Salem road at a cost of $15,000 was also denied by the senator.

He further stated that the matter of electing a successor to Andrew Boyd, resigned manager and vice president, had not been taken up.

The meeting started this morning, and continued through the afternoon.

"We have had a general discussion on matters pertaining to the plant," declared Mr. Bosshard. "Nothing of any importance has come up."

MAN FALLS DEAD AT DOCTOR'S DOOR

Joseph Schurrer Overtaxes Strength Climbing Stairs to Dr. Henke's Office; Heart Disease

HAD BADE HIS FRIENDS GOODBYE

Told One Acquaintance He Probably Would Never See Him Alive Again; Dead in an Hour

"I'm going up to see the doctor. I feel poorly and this may be the last time you will ever see me alive."

This was the remark Josepr Schurrer is said to have made to a friend with whom he shook hands on the street shortly before going to see his physician, Dr. W. A. Henke. Within an hour he was dead.

His strength over-taxed by the climb up a long flight of stairs leading to the office of his physician, Dr. W. A. Henke, Joseph Schurrer, aged 46, fell dead at 7:30 last night near the door of the doctor's office. Heart failure was the cause.

Ill for Months

Mr. Schurrer, according to Dr. Henke, has been in ill heath for some time, owing to a weak heart. It was but recently he returned to his work as bench hand at the Segelke & Kohlhaus Manufacturing company.

Yesterday the old trouble came back. His heart troubled him and he was short of breath.

At the close of his day's labor he decided to see his physician and started for the office in the Majestic building.

Is Found Dead

"He entered the office entirely out of breath," said Dr. Henke today. "He couldn't talk and started to walk to the hallway. I presume he thought he could breathe more freely.

"I rushed into my laboratory to get him medicine. When I came back I found him on the floor of the hall, dead."

Leaves Family

Mr. Schurrer leaves a widow and two children, Elmer, aged 12 and Roland, aged 8.

Services will be held Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the home. Rev. E. Vornholt of the German Reformed church will officiate. Burial will take place in Oak Grove cemetery.

GIRL STUDENT SUICIDES

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 13.—Commencement exercises of Butler college were saddened today by the death last night of Miss Mary Elizabeth Howe, 19, daughter of President Thomas Howe of the college. She took her own life in her room with poison while her escort, Baird Hastings, a student at the University of Michigan, waited below to take her to a dance. Coroner Dudham attributed her act to nervous breakdown.

SLEEPS DURING SEARCH.

JOLIET, Ill., June 13.—After an all night search in which nearly every resident of Plainfield participated, Grace Darling, young daughter of L. H. Darling, head of the Plainfield schools, was found asleep in the woods today. She had wandered ten miles from her home, when she lost her way yesterday.

DALY TO YANKS

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 13.—Connie Mack today turned over Outfielder Pete Daly to the New York Americans. The Athletics will get no player in return, according to Mack, who said he agreed to send Daly to the Yankees last fall.

CONVICTS ON ROADS.

JOLIET, Ill., June 13.—The second squad of "honor prisoners" from the Joliet prison to be put at work on the roads will leave tomorrow for Meeker, Ill., where a camp will be established.

FEDERATION TODAY ENDORSES CAUSE

"Votes for Women" Gets Almost Unanimous Approval of Clubwomen

ADOPTED BY VIVA VOCE VOTE

Suffrage Cheers Fill Auditorium as the Resolution Passes

BY MARIE MOORE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, June 13.—"Votes for Women" was endorsed by an almost unanimous vote today by the biennial convention of the General Federation of the Women's clubs.

The suffrage resolution presented by Mrs. E. L. Denniston, of California, was adopted by viva voce vote, with scarcely any opposition. Suffrage cheers filled the auditorium and suffrage leaders led the convention in singing Hallelujahs.

The text of the resolution follows:

"Whereas, The question of political equality of men and women is today a vital problem under discussion throughout the civilized world; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the General Federation of Women's clubs give the cause of political equality for men and women its moral support by recording its earnest belief in the principle of political equality, regardless of sex."

"Endorsement by the clubwomen will advance the cause of suffrage at least a decade," said Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, Illinois suffrage leader. "It must have a tremendous moral effect on congress and the state legislatures. With the endorsement of a million federated clubwomen, we should win nationwide woman suffrage within the next four years.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt's suffrage address last night, was the suffragists' trump card. The most significant thing about the convention's action today was the fact that the suffrage resolution was seconded by Mrs. Joseph A. Leach of Louisville, Ky., southern women having heretofore been classed with the 'antis."

Mrs. Shaw Congratulates

NEW YORK, June 13. — Regretfully declining an invitation to be the guest of the general Federation of Women's clubs now meeting in Chicago, Dr. Anna Shaw, president of the National Suffrage association sent the following telegram to Mrs. Anna Pennybacker, president of the Woman's clubs, whicr was given out here today:

"On returning from the quinquennial meeting of the International Council of Women, I find your invitation to be the guest of the federation. I sincerely regret my inability to accept. I trust that the fact that the delegates from twenty-eight countries passed unanimously a resolution favoring woman suffrage may inspire the national federation to take similiar action. (Signed.

ANNA HOWARD SHAW."

MANY CLERKS WILL BE AT CONVENTION

Notables of the State Coming to Attend County Clerks' Meeting to Be Held Next Week

Many county clerks, and others of the state, will attend the annual convention of county clerks to be held in La Crosse Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Replies have been received from 21 clerks in the state and it is known that many more will attend.

Some of the others who will be here are A. R. Hirst of the state engineering department, of Madison; J. S. Donald, secretary of state; W. C. Owen, attorney general; Merlin Hull, speaker of the house and candidate for governor; J. C. Karel, candidate for governor, and at least one representative of the Wisconsin Tax commission.

An excellent program of amusements has been planned, including a trip on the river and inspection of various La Crosse industries.

LA CROSSE HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI ENJOY BANQUET

Annual Meeting Outlines Real Work for Future and Elects Officers for 1914-15

PROF. ALBERT HARDY RESIGNS

Letter from Venerable Educator Received with Deep Regret by His Old Pupils

TRIBUTE TO W. R. HEMMENWAY

Paper Giving Intimate History of Fine Old Scholar Arouses Deep Interest at Dinner

About 150 guests, mostly alumni, but including a few immediate relatives, attended the annual dinner and ball of the Alumni Association of the La Crosse high school at that institution last evening.

Officers were elected as follows:
Helen Dorset, president.
Horace Holley, vice president.
Mrs. Harry M. Curtis, secretary.
Ray L. Dickinson, treasurer.

Work for the Future

The outstanding feature of the program was an appeal of Helen Dorset, secretary, for more definite purposes—missions for which the association might work. Resolutions, in pursuance of Miss Dorset's address, were unanimously adopted, and these convey clearly the logic of her notable message of usefulness. The resolutions provide for the appointment of committees, as follows:

A committee to consider the establishment of a loan fund for benefit of high school students.

A committee on vocational guidance.

A commitee to be on call by principal for consultation over matters of school policy.

A committee to consider securing works of art suitable for decoration, etc., in high school.

Mr. Hardy Resigns

Exclamations of regret followed the announcement by Superintendent L. P. Benezet that Prof. Albert Hardy had that very day resigned as principal of the Washington school, in a letter to the superintendent. The statement followed a tribute to Prof. Hardy in the course of a toast by Mrs. Samuel McKee of West Salem, '84. Mr. Hardy's letter follows:

"To the Board of Education:

"Gentlemen—In my 75th year, after fifty years of service as a teacher, 28 years in La Crosse, I think it wise to retire from active work, though it is with many regrets that I sever the pleasant relations and strong ties that bind me to the work in La Crosse. I thank you gentlemen and Superintendent Benezet for your consideration, courtesy and kindness.

"Sincerely,

(Signed) "A. HARDY."

INFORMATION BOOTH NEARLY READY FOR THE BIG WEEK

Pennants, buttons, booklets about La Crosse and other articles of the same sort will be on sale at the information booth which the homecoming committee is erecting between the McMillan building and the Security bank on North Fourth street.

The building will be completed today or early next week, and it will be opened shortly thereafter. Attendants will be there at all times during homecoming week to answer any questions regarding the city that may be asked. City directories and telephones will be there, at the disposal of the city's guests.

One of the most interesting of the letters received by the homecoming week committee is one from F. Thornely, now of Palestine, Texas, who came to La Crosse in 1870, when the city was on the western fringe of civilization. His letter follows:

Palestine, Texas, June 6, 1914.

Mr. W. F. Goodrich, Chairman Invitation Committee Homecoming Week, La Crosse, Wis.

Dear Sir: We are in receipt of your invitation to the Homecoming at La Crosse, June 28 to July 4, 1914. If circumstances would permit, we should be delighted to avail ourselves of this invitation, although we are afraid that, as thirty-four years have elapsed since we left the Gateway city, we should now find very few familiar faces to greet us.

The La Crosse of today must be a very different looking place from the one that greeted the eyes of the writer when, in the spring of 1870, in company with a fellow Englishman, he left the cars somewhere in the neighborhood of North La Crosse, and embarked on the little steamer Itaska, in order to reach South La Crosse. The three rivers at the time were swollen to a record breaking height and the railroad depot was washed away.

This experience served to deepen an Englishman's impression of primitive conditions already received from an influx of Indians, in traditional array, who had boarded the smoker at Tunnel City. These aborigines squatted, peacefully enough, at one end of the car, but they were followed at Tomah by a big delegation of red shirted loggers, whose drunken hilarity made it very uncomfortable for the Indians, as well as the other occupants of the car. We certainly thought we had struck the wild and wooly west.

When we landed at the foot of Pearl street we followed the crowd to a small hostelry called the St. Nicholas. There we secured a room with a lockless door, and having the fear of rowdy lumbermen and possible scalping Indians, we preceeded to barricade our door with bureau and chairs.

By daylight, La Crosse looked very different, quite civilized, in fact. We soon grew to feel very much at home there, in spite of the shingle sawdust streets, and the obtrusive, ever present sandburrs. At that time La Crosse had sidewalks only as far back as Fifth street.

My family, that is my wife, two daughters and myself, have been living in eastern Texas for the last three years. We appreciate the advantages of living in this great and unique state, but we shall always cherish a strong affection for the north, especially our old home at La Crosse.

We feel assured you will have a pleasant and successful Homecoming week, and only wish we could share it with you. With hearty greetings to our old friends, we remain,

Yours truly,
F. THORNELY AND FAMILY.

GANZ BOY FIRST VICTIM OF WATER

BRAVE RESCUE ATTEMPT FAILS

Harry Cohen Plunges In but Fails to Clutch His Companion; Body Recovered

Walter Ganz, aged 9, son of Samuel Ganz, shipping clerk at the La Crosse Rubber Mills, was the first victim to be claimed by the Mississippi at La Crosse this season.

The little boy, with companions, was playing on a boom anchored at the mouth of the Black river at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Running from a companion, he slipped and fell into the water. An arm on which an operation had been performed recently handicapped him, and he went down.

Harry Cohen, aged 14, and Leon Low, aged 14, who were playing with Ganz, were near when he fell in. His head came to the surface once and young Cohen plunged into the stream, swollen by the recent rains. His efforts to clutch Ganz' body were futile and it was only after a hard battle with the stiff current that he succeeded in getting back to the boom.

Body Recovered.

William Weiss, residing at the Y. M. C. A., found the body at 5:30.

The police had been notified and arrived with the pulmotor. It was useless.

The funeral will probably be held Monday.

DELAY OPENING OF Y. W. C. A. CAMP

High Stage of Water Prevents Opening of Summer Camp of the Local Association

Owing to the extremely high stage of water, the summer camp of the Young Women's Christian Association, which was to have been opened today, will not be established until a later date, according to an announcement today by Miss Bertha Hoefke, who will be in charge of the camp.

The campers will this year, as in the past, occupy the houseboat "Katie G.", owned by Mr. George H. Clarke. As the houseboat is to be moored to the dam across West Channel at Riverside camp, a few miles up the river, it will not be brought up the river until the water drops below the top of the dam. However, the camp will be opened as soon as the water drops sufficiently to allow of a safe anchorage for the "Katie G." Announcements of the opening of the camp will be made at a later date.

REPORTS FOR DUTY PLUNGES OVER DEAD

Motorman George L. Steadman Victim of Weak Heart at Car Barns This Morning

WAS TALKING WITH OTHER MEN

Sat on Bench and Joked and Seemed to Be in Good Health; Leaves Widow and Seven Children

Within a few minutes of the time he was to have taken his car out for its first morning run over the cemetery line, George L. Steadman, 1107 Vine street, motorman for the Wisconsin Railway Light & Power company, sat on a bench at the car barns, Third and La Crosse streets, and died.

Death, according to Dr. J. A. Rowles, who was called, was due to heart failure.

Steadman appeared at the barn shortly before 6 o'clock to report for duty. He conversed with other employes who had congregated there. After reporting he went outside the office and sat on a bench with motormen and conductors.

According to them he talked, made no mention of being ill and seemed to be in good health.

Suddenly he plunged off of the bench. The doctor was summoned but life was extinct.

Steadman leaves a widow and seven children. Five of the children are girls.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

MOVIE PLANT BURNS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 13.—Hundreds of thousands of feet of moving picture films were destroyed today when fire, caused by an explosion, destroyed the storage vault at the plant of the Lubin Manufacturing company here. The front of ten houses adjoining were burned out as flames mounted high in the air. The five hundred employes in the Lubin plant rushed to the street, but scores of girls became hysterical and were prevented from jumping out of windows by actors and men employes. The loss is estimated at $500,000.

MYSTERY AROUND BIG INHERITANCE CLEARED BY HEIR

Mrs. Leah Fuchsel Today Claims She Is Sole Heir to $38,000,000 Estate of Chicagoan

HAD REFUSED TO MARRY HIM

Man She Met While Singing in Drexel Cafe Pursued Her to La Crosse in Effort to Wed

Girl in Rented Room Says Legal Adviser Says Estate Consists Mostly of Stocks and Bonds

That she is the sole heiress to the $38,000,000 estate of Grant Hartford, Chicago speculator, whom she claims shot himself in a Chicago hotel about six months ago, is the claim today of Mrs. Leah Fuchsel, wife of Leo Fuchsel, local painter and former star with the Athletes baseball team.

The Fuchsels received word of their good fortune in two rooms they occupy at 712 Cass street.

This is the "fortune story" that has been talked over the streets of La Crosse for several weeks and about which there has been a veil of mysetry, never lifted until Mrs. Fuchsel's consent to tell it to The Tribune this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuchsel, to avoid publicity, and "on advice of attorneys," left La Crosse several days ago for the home of Mrs. Fuchsel's grandparents Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Smith, two miles out of Brownsville, Minn.

They were located there yesterday by The Tribune and a reporter dispatched there. The trip to the Smith home was made yesterday afternoon in the fast launch of Theodore Thompson. Mr. and Mrs. Fuchsel were on the porch when the reporter and Mr. Thompson reached the place.

They positively refused to discuss the alleged inheritance, other than to admit that it was true and that the fortune was reputed to total $38,000,000.

Following the visit from The Tribune, however, they decided to return to La Crosse and this morning Mrs. Fuchsel consented to give out what she knows of the affair.

Sang in Cafe

Mrs. Fuchsel, an uncommonly attractive young woman, is but 22 years of age. She met the Chicago millionaire, she says, while engaged as a singer in the Drexel cafe there. She was 19 years old then.

He became enamored with her, she says, lavished her with gifts and insisted that she marry him.

She says she refused and that he often threatened to shoot both himself and her unless she would marry.

"I came to La Crosse to get away from him," she said. "While I was here he heard of my engagement to Mr. Fuchsel. Hartford came to La Crosse and urged me to break off the

SPOTLIGHTS

SHEEHAN ENGLISH OPERA CO.

The Sheehan English Opera company will present a triple bill consisting of three of the world's most popular operas, at the La Crosse theater, Tuesday, June 16.

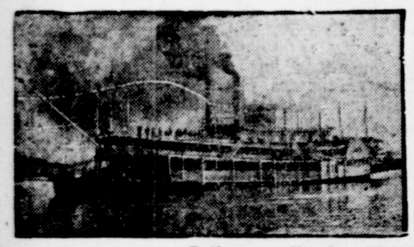

Never before in this country has so much interest been shown in a performance of opera as in the combination bill given by the Sheehan company.

The performance consists of the tower scene with its famous Miserere, as well as the dungeon scene of "Il Trovatore." These two scenes comprise the most beautiful part of the entire opera. The scene of "The Bohemian Girl" which is given, includes "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls," and the beautiful duet following it, "Then You'll Remember Me," "Bliss Forever Past" and the famous trio between the tenor, soprano and baritone. The entire second act known as "The Kitchen Scene" of "Martha" is given, which includes "The Last Rose of Summer," the duet between the tenor and soprano, the Spinning Wheel Quartet and the Good Night Quartet. This act also includes all of the most delightful comedy of the entire opera.

The arrangement has met with instant success, as it gives all that is worth while in the three operas, and cuts out the tiresome explanatory routine. It gives the most interesting scenes, the best music and its appeal is to the music lover and casual theater-goer as well.

Silver Wings Won the Prize.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— The Little Lizards' Rainy Day Party.

IT had been such a rainy day, but Jack and Evelyn had been for a walk in spite of the weather.

"Where did you go?" asked daddy.

"We had a splendid walk," said Jack. "We went through the woods. We had on our oldest clothes, high boots and rubbers, so we didn't care how wet we got."

"We certainly did get wet, though," said Evelyn, "but just the same we had lots of fun. The woods looked so pretty all wet and green."

"The red lizards gave a party this afternoon in the woods, and I thought maybe you two children might have seen them," said daddy.

"We didn't see them having a party," said Evelyn, "but we saw just ever and ever so many lizards hurrying along, and probably they were on their way to the party."

"Yes, that must have been it," said daddy. "You see, they wanted to give a party for the fairies.

"The fairy queen and all the fairies thought it was fine of the lizards to give them a party, and they liked being invited out on a rainy day because it wasn't every one who wanted to give a party on a rainy day.

"When they got to the side of the mountain all the lizards were in line ready to receive the fairies very formally. They made low bows and twisted their tails as well as wiggled their little legs, which in lizard talk meant:

"'Good day, fairies. We are happy to see you.'

"The first thing the lizards had arranged for the amusement of the fairies was a wading contest.

"Near by on the mountain side there was a little brook with mossy, slippery rocks in it. The fairy who could wade for the longest time without slipping was to win a prize.

"The lizards, of course, thought it was lots of fun to watch the fairies slip, because the more rain there was the easier it was for the lizards to hurry along, and the fairies thought it was lots of fun too. Of course, as they had come out with the intention of getting wet, they didn't mind falling on the mossy stones at all. And such laughter as there was! And the lizards wiggled so with glee and amusement!

"The little fairy named Silver Wings won the prize, as she didn't fall at all, and the lizards were very pleased that she had won, for on the tip of her right wing she had a little rosette made of moss which she had put on in honor of the lizards' party. That pleased the lizards so much that it was with the greatest enthusiasm they presented the prize to her."

ARTHUR BANTLY IS ILL AT HIS HOME

No Band Concert at Rushford This Week; Emanuel Church to Give a Luncheon

RUSHFORD, Minn., June 13.—Arthur Bantly, the only son of Rev. and Mrs. Bantly, of this city, is very ill at the home of his parents. Miss Beck of La Crosse, is the attending nurse.

No Band Concert

On account of Prof. Lambert's absence from this city, the usual evening band concert was not given this week. Mr. Lambert is in Spring Valley at present, on business.

To Serve Luncheon

The Guild of Emanuel church will serve luncheon on the afternoon of Wednesday, June 17. The hostesses for the day will be Mesdames A. K. Hanson and John Jacobson and Miss Essie Lampman. All are very cordially invited to attend.

Nelson Gets Contract

Contraoctor Martin Nelson of this city, has secured the contract for building the new creamery, soon to be erected in place of the old building. The highest bid received was $5,25 and Mr. Nelson's bid was $5,-170.

Former Residents Marry

Announcements have been received here by friends of the contracting parties, that Arthur Olson and Miss Emma Johnson, both one time residents of this city, but for several years of Colorado, are to be united in marriage there in the near future. Both of the young people are well and favorably known here and need no introduction, being favorites with the young people.

Attend Convention

The recent W. C. T. U. convention held at Preston, was attended by seven wide-awake delegates from this city, instead of three, as formerly stated. The delegates were as follows: Mrs. Andrew Ness, Mrs. John Bantly, Mrs. T. Sundby, Mrs. A. T. Kjos, Mrs. J. Akre, Miss Martha Gjernes, Miss Geneva Halvorson. A very interesting program was carried out each day of the convention, Miss Rozette Hendricks being one of the speakers from a distance. All delegates are unanimous in their pleasure at the welcome given them and the unlimited hospitality of the Prestonites.

Postpone Exercises

Because of unavoidable circumstances, the Children's day exercises at the Rushford Presbyterian church have been postponed until Sunday, June 28th.

Personals

Miss Mattie Julsrud of this city, graduated from the Ladies' Seminary at Red Wing, last Tuesday. Otto Julsrud, her brother and his son, Maurice, also Kenneth Julsrud, her nephew, went up to attend the commencement exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Emery of Caledonia, have been recent guests of the J. Webster home, as have also Mr. and Mrs. Keuthe of Preston.

Marcus Berg, for many years a resident of this city and owner of the dray line here, recently came up from La Crosse for a brief visit with old friends. Mr. Berg moved to La Crosse about 13 years ago.

Mrs. G. W. Rockwell and sister, Miss Mildred Chalfant are the guests of their friends and relatives in and around Preston.

The craze for swift traveling is still on, the sale of autoes to Mr. C. O. Swenson and Henry Tenborg testifying to the fact. The machines are of the Maxwell "25" type and were sold by a local dealer.

Miss Lillie Engh of Brooklyn, was one of the recent graduates from the Winona normal. She is spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. Matilda Engh.

HOW RESINOL CLEARS AWAY UGLY PIMPLES

It is so easy to get rid of pimples and blackheads with Resinol, and it costs so little, too, that anyone whose face is disfigured by these pests is foolish to keep on with useless cosmetics, or complicated "beauty treatments." See how simply it is done:

Bathe your face for several minutes with Resinol Soap and hot water, then apply a little Resinol Ointment very gently. Let this stay on ten minutes, and wash off with Resinol Soap and more hot water, finishing with a dash of cold water to close the pores. Do this once or twice a day, and you will be astonished to find how quickly the healing, antiseptic Resinol medication soothes and cleanses the pores, leaving the complexion clear and velvety.

Resinol stops itching instantly and speedily heals skin humors. Resinol Ointment and Soap sold by all druggists. For free trial size, write Dept. KK, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

PRESERVE BABY'S SKIN

KICK ON TREE RATES

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The interstate commerce commission, perspiring over the five per cent advance freight rate case, received a cooling draught from Northern Michigan today when dealers of that section formally complained that railroads are charging excessive and discriminatory rates on Christmas trees.

If you want to get along well you must limit your sympathy.

GAS MAGNATE DIES

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 13.—Thomas Dolan, 83, former president of the United Gas Improvement company, which is interested in hundreds of public utility corporations in the United States, dies in his home at Torresdale, today. He was accounted one of the wealthiest men in the United States.

It must have been great in the days of old when knights were bold and wore shirts of mail. They could send their shirts to the laundry with the assurance that they would come back almost whole.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

AND RUNS AWAY

By CASPAR JOHNSON.

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Aunt Agatha Prince leaned forward in her chair and scanned closely the trim knockabout just shooting to a mooring stake in the harbor.

"That's the Banshee, Billy Caverly's boat," she announced.

Theresa Holmes turned her head so that her aunt could not see her face and wrinkled her nose disdainfully. After which she lifted an edge of the porch curtain and looked across the sloping lawn and the smooth waters of Shady Harbor beyond it. She saw the knockabout in question and a white-clad athletic figure in the bow, reachin for the mooring stake with a boat hook.

"He'll be coming ashore to call on us presently of course," said Aunt Agatha. "We'll keep him to dinner. He's such a dear boy. You'll be sure to like him, Thressa."

She got out of her chair. She moved toward the doorway.

"Hadn't you better freshen up a just a bit dear, before he comes?"

Theresa put down the book she was reading. The trutho f the matter is she put it down rather ungently. She followed her aunt through the door and into the cottage.

When she came down to the veranda again some minutes later, very pretty in her simple white gown, the knockabout swung idly with the tide at the mooring stake. The trailing tender was gone. Theresa looked out on the water, fully expecting to see it poking shoreward with the athletic figure at the oars.

Far away the mainland was a hazy streak of blue. Theresa looked at it with furrowed brows. Why on earth hadn't she sense enough to take the steamer back yesterday? There was no other boat leaving the island until 4 o'clock this afternoon. But then, she reflected, she had not known until this morning that her aunt had invited Billy Caverly to run over.

It was all so obvious in light of Aunt Agatha's match-making proclivities. It was always thus when she stayed with her aunt; one young man after another; and all of them serious-minded, heavy, self- sufficient chaps.

Theresa glanced at the rows of cat-boats and knockabouts moored there in the harbor. She was a good sailor. What did it matter if there were no boat until 4? She could get away and upset this last carefully planned meeting with an eligible young man—eligible from Aunt Agatha's point of view. Why not calmly borrow one of those boats at the moorings and run away? If she were to do this, what could be nicer than to borrow Mr. Caverly's knockabout?

That Caverly was ashore somewhere on the island was argued by the absence of the tender. She laughed aloud. Then she opened the hall door and listened. Aunt Agatha was still upstairs.

Five minutes later a dinghey—whose it might be Theresa neither knew nor cared—stole out from the shore. Straight to the side of the Banshee it went. Aboard tumbled Theresa with many delighted chuckles, tied the dinghey to the mooring stake, hoisted the knockabout's sails cast off the lines and a moment later went skimming out of the harbor in the puffy breeze from the southwest.

She did not notice ugly black clouds poking their heads behind the island. It was only when she was well out in the sound and a distant rumble of thunder fell on her ears, that she saw the squall coming.

She headed the knockabout into the wind and began to shorten sail. One glance at those thunderheads told her it was going to be a merry little blow. Already the sky to the west was growing ominously dark.

She worked furiously. A stronger wind, the forerunner of what was coming, whipped the reef-lines from her hands. She began to work faster, and as she did, the sliding doors of the little cabin hatch opeued and a smiling young man stepped on deck.

"Maybe I can help," said he calmly, and then, with one swift look at the sky, he fell resolutely to work.

Theresa, still working beside him flushed rosily.

'For goodness sake, how did you happen to be aboard?"

"Of my own boat?" he asked meaningly.

Theresa's cheeks became more rosy.

"But I thought—there wasn't any tender——" she stammered.

"My pump was working badly. I went ashore to get a man to fix it. He took the tender and went back for more packing. I was in the cabin when you came aboard—and kidnapped me in my own craft."

Theresa bit her lips.

"You are Miss Theresa Holmes, I think," said he. "If I'm not mistaken, you are the young lady I saw on Mrs. Prince's veranda when I ran into Shady Harbor."

"I tried to get away," said she pointedly.

He smiled. "I know Mrs. Prince of old," he said with a meaning nod of his head. "I don't blame you. I surmised as much. I wasn't intending to appear at all, but the blow coming up as it did I thought perhaps you might need help. I'll just retire to the cabin again and let you go on to the mainland and make your escape as soon as it is over."

"Thank you," she said simply.

The thunder sounded nearer. Then with a swish and a roar a froth of white water, wind-driven, came toward them.

"We're in for it," she cried, jumping for the tiller.

There was a very wild few minutes of it after that. Theresa, crouching on the seat beside him, realized it was no ordinary blow. Great drops of rain and hail began to fall; it grew as dark as late twilight.

"I imagine it's lucky I did kidnap you," Theresa managed to shout to him through the wind and hail.

"I'm glad you feel that way," said he with a grateful smile.

A great wall of water came tumbling over the bow. It swept aft, drenching them both to the skin. One of his strong arms went out suddenly to hold her on the seat.

"Are you afraid," he asked.

"Not with you," she answered, shaking the water from her eyes and ducking her head as another sea swept down on them.

It was over as quickly as it had come. The sky cleared, the sun came out hazily, they could see the storm sweeping on toward the mainland.

The young man stood up and glanced about the horizon.

"Well, that's about all for this afternoon. I imagine," said he. "Suppose now I shake out the reefs, retire to the cabin again and let you proceed to the mainland, quite as if I had never come out of it at all."

Theresa was looking at his narrowly. She liked his face; she liked his smile.

"Is that what you want to do?" she asked demurely.

"Frankly, it isn't," he replied. "If I had my way I'd head straight back for Shady Harbor. I'd dine with you and your aunt tonight. I'd—oh, I think I'd hang around a while, and see if I couldn't induce you to go sailing with me and to like me a little, despite Mrs. Prince's match-making, or attempts thereat."

Theresa laughed lightly. Then she turned away her eyes.

"If I were a man—a strong young man," said she, slowly, "I think I'd do about as I wished."

The knockabout forthwith headed back toward the island.

FORTUNE STORY TRUE SAYS WOMAN

Mrs. Fuchsel Says She Inherited Wealth but Declines to Talk; Mystery Surrounds Inheritance

That it is true that she inherited the fortune of an alleged millionaire says Mrs. John Fuchsel, wife of a painter at 1108 South Seventh street.

Complete mystery surrounds the alleged inheritance, however, and today she declined to discuss the inheritance further than to admit that it is true.

Mrs. Fuchsel declined to give the name of the millianoire whose beneficiary she claims to be, declined to state who he was or how much the inheritance amounts to.

'I don't care to discuss it. I have been told to say nothing," she said.

Mrs. Fuchsel, with her husband, is on a farm out of Brownsville.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin have a surprise awaiting them because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

McGOVERN ENDORSED PERKINS TRUST PLATFORM

Perkins framed a trust-loved platform, to his liking. Roosevelt stood for it, stood for election upon it. McGovern endorsed it, without even the leaven of the stolen anti-trust plank which Amos Pinchot hints Perkins might find.

Whatever Mr. Pinchot says about Perkins, then, is equally true of Roosevelt and of McGovern. If he dictated, they subscribed; if he paid the fiddler, they danced.

Wherefore, the Pinchot letter becomes eligible to the files of the present Wisconsin senatorial campaign as a political exhibit.

"TOP NOTCH" FARMER BELONGS TO PRESENT

Farmers of the state recently met at Fort Atkinson to discuss business farming and farm management. More than ever the farm is now becoming a business institution and is being conducted along strictly business lines.

Something most farmers have not started here yet, but which is practiced by owners of larger farms, is the "efficiency" system.

The new plan of systematically working the soil and horses, to get the most efficient labor done for the least money, took up a part of the discussion at this important meeting. The idea itself is not new, but the plan is. The "top notch" farmers, as the winners of the contests are called, are men who already have this system at work on their farms. They are getting more, acre for acre, than any other farmers in the state.

More and more every year the farmer is coming to realize that real system, with a view to the highest efficiency, pays. The better the farmer learns this the better it will be for the city people, the consumers.

Considering the never ending talk of the "high cost of living," the "top notch" farmer is distinctly a product of the present.

SUCCESS TO WOMEN IN DRESS REFORM

Women of the nation are interested in the biennial convention of women's clubs, held in Chicago. Everything from woman's dress to woman suffrage has been considered and disposed of.

Especially noteworthy is the effort of the women to secure "more reasonable and becoming fashions." A resolution was passed, asking that a committee be named in each state to co-operate with the dressmakers to this end.

The tendency among American women to "follow designs in dress, regardless of beauty, comfort or modesty," is deplored. The women ask that American designs, instead of imported ones, be worn here.

All sane minded men, and most all women, will wish the club members success in their undertaking.

STRANGE BELIEF FOR PRESENT AGE

A Green Bay physician told the members of the state vice commission that houses of ill-fame were necessary and should be regulated.

And this is in the year of 1914!

The physician—Dr. Robert E. Minnahan—is a former mayor of Green Bay. It is hard to conceive of a man, who is a doctor, advocating such a thing as a "regulated district."

The doctor did make one good point, however. He touched on the "idle silk stocking fellows," young men who spend their time in automobiles and their money for drink. He said they were responsible for the downfall of many girls. And he is right there.

But why should he talk of the downfall of the young women and the causes, when he advocates a place for them to fall to?

One wonders what the citizens of Green Bay think of these things.

DEMANDS DROP

DENVER, Col., June 13.—The second Black Hand letter sent to a Denver millionaire in thirty-six hours was delivered today to Dennis Sheedy, banker and capitalist. It was signed "Amateur Blank Hand," the same as the letter delivered previously to Colonel D. C. Dodge, veteran railroad builder but whereas the Dodge letter demanded $20,000, the Sheedy letter demanded only $25. Sheedy and Dodge think boys who have read "Penny Dreadfuls" are responsible.

MRS. THERESA GOERKS DIES.

BARABOO, Wis., June 13.—Mrs. Theresa Goerks, who died at Honey Creek, this county, was the mother of eighteen children, nine of whom are living. She was born in Germany in 1855, and was married to August Goerks in 1875.

WANT HIGHER LICENSES

KENOSHA, Wis., June 13.—Petitions are being prepared to demand from the council a special election to decide whether or not the saloon license is to be raised to $800 a year. It is now $500.

A negro cook knocked a train robber out with an ice pick in a recent western hold-up. He could have accomplished the same result by giving the robber one of those dining car omelets.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Dawn and Dusk.

Ripple on ripple, from the east,
The golden stream of morning runs;
The dark world doffs its grays and duns,
And high o'erhead night's robes are creased
With azure—deep as Solomon's
When he sat throned at feast.

And glittering as David when
He rode to battle brazen helmed,
And prayed his God and overwhelmed
His foes and flamed among his men,
The sun comes forth, a king high realmed,
Who takes his throne again.

* * * *

One last long sheaf of golden gray,
The twilight binds, then lays aside;
And one white star that trys to hide
Its blossom there, reveals a ray;
Where, like sweet Ruth, dim, dewey eyed,
Dusk goes her sunset way.

Then like the stars that went before
Bathsheba, when, with footsteps slow,
She trod the wise king's portico,
Eastward a light grows, more and more;
And then, queenlike, with face aglow,
The moon—at heaven's door.

Higher, All Right

John Thompson was a good husband, but he possessed a weakness for teasing his wife about dress. One day he found her sitting by the window.

"Then you must be thinking of a new hat," h e retorted.—Lippincott's

To a Trunk Hospital

"Speaking of animals, in my opinion the elephant is the cleverest of them all," said the circus man. "I remember once, many years ago, when Jacko, who was then under my charge showed me that he could read."

"Oh, come now," said the listener.

"I'll prove it to you in about two minutes," said the trainer. "Well, as I was saying, the old fellow got into a scrap with the Bengal tiger and before we could get them separated he had his trunk badly damaged. After the scrimmage was over Jacko broke loose and started down the street fast. 'He's going wild!' somebody shouted. 'Don't you believe it,' says I. Now where do you suppose that elaphant went to?"

"Went to the surgeon's I suppose. Can't you get up a better yarn?"

"No he didn't go to the surgeon's. He went straight to a little shop, where a sign said: 'Trunks repaired while you wait.' Of course he had made a mistake. But what can you expect of a poor, dumb brute?"

Undue Haste

"James, dear," said a careful mother to her 7-year-old insurgent, "your Uncle Ed will be here for dinner today. Be sure to wash your face and hands before coming to the table."

"Yes, mother," hesitatingly, "but—but supposin' he doesn't come?"

Piano Instruction

Agent—I came to deliver your book on "How to Play the Piano."

Lady—But I didn't order any.

Agent—Haven't you a next door neighbor named Brown?

Lady—Why, yes. Is it for her?

Agent—No; she ordered it for you.

TROTTER PLANTS ORCHARD

The people of Bayfield are proud of the fact that Prof. W. F. Bennyhoff of New York—after having traveled over the continent looking into the fruit situation—has located at their city and is planting fruit orchards there.

Prof. Bennyhoff had charge of the sanitary conditions at the Panama canal for a long time and since then He found nothing so promising of has been looking over the fruit situation in the Pactfic coast country. success as the situation at Bayfield and vicinity—the principal point being that along Lake Superior there are no losses from frost. The orchard heating pots of the Pacific coast have been found expensive and ineffective, while along Lake Superior they are not needed.

The Great New Historical Romance

John O' Jamestown

By VAUGHN KESTER

Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company

"Lord, Farraday, we have wrought a pretty havoc here!" said he.

He spoke true, for where so late a wilderness of goodly trees had been, there was naught now but blackened stumps; while on the wooded boundaries of our little field was the heaped-up litter of branches which we had dragged thither. We had paused at the far side of the field and close within the cool margin of the wood; already our first planting of corn was pushing up from the rich earth, so that the eye might follow the nodding green rows to the very edge of Captain Kendall's famous defense and our cluster of tents, which were here and there overtopped by a house of logs, some so far advanced that men were at work roofing them with the thatch. Beyond was the forest growth again, which extended down to the river; through its openings I caught glimpses of the hulls and spars of Newport's ships, and the distant blue of the southern shore.

Cassen's glance followed mine, he nodded toward the ships.

"They will soon be returning to England," said he.

But I made no answer to this. I knew it only too well, for what would I not have given to know that I might sail on the Susan Constant.

"I tell you this, Farraday, our president would fain have Captain Smith sail with Newport; the catain's a bad dream to the worthy merchant. I doubt not he fears Smith will end by slitting his throat for him!"

I glanced toward Cassen, rather puzzled by his speech.

"How do you know what Wingfield wants or fears?" I asked.

"Look you here, Farraday, they are going to send Smith back to England by fair means or foul—'tis all one. Wingfield is in such fear of him that he cannot speak his name even without going white with his terror."

"Of that I know nothing," I said.

"The whole council is against him, saving only Captain Gosnold. Kendall flies into a fury if one but mentions his name in his hearing; he calls him a Gascon and a beggar—it passes all, the names he finds for him; he says he is a liar who has had dreams of adventure and believes them true."

"Of that I know, too," I said again. And when John Smith hears of their free speech, I doubt not he will lay Master Kendall and some others by the heels."

But I did not know that Chrisian soldier; for later when the lives of his most inveterate detractors were at his mercy, he spared them with a true charity at which I can only marvel, for his surface temper was somewhat hasty and choleric.

"Yesterday Wingfield had me in his tent—yon never saw such condescension, Farraday! He patted me on the back and called me Thomas—my name is George, but no matter, it was the spirit of the thing—and then he would have it that I drink with him a glass of right Canary."

"And what then?" I asked.

"Why, he put to me some questions about you, Farraday."

"About me " and I was mightily astonished.

"Yes, he would have me tell him if you were not anxious to return to England; then he would know if you were not in Captain Smith's confidence, and I said you were a deal together. He said that he had observed that, too; and all this time he was plucking at his beard as if he had something on his mind, and yet durst not be quite frank. Next he asked me if I thought you could be induced to take a certain stand for the good of the company, especially if you were assured that you would be granted permission to return to England when Captain Newport sails; and then he blurted out the whole thing. It will be intimated to you very presently that if you will swear to it that Captain Smith has imparted to you his design of seizing on this country, murdering the council, and setting himself up for king, it will be money in your pocket and a speedy return to England; otherwise you will find you have made yourself powerful enemies who will keep you here till the last moment."

"Are you his messenger?" I asked sternly.

"God forbid, Farraday," cried Cassen hastily. "But that trading knave would have had me for one of his coached witnesses against Smith; he offered to line my pockets well, but I desire only to warn you that they will come at you with this proposal at the last moment, when the ships are about to sail and when the temptation will be strongest."

"But speaking only for yourself, what did you tell Wingfield?" I demanded.

"Why, having a mind to serve Captain Smith, who is worth some score of those idlers in the council, I feigned to consider the proposal. I said I would at once begin negotiations with you, which gained me more Canary and more condescension, and then in came Kendall, who took an eager hand in the plotting."

"And will you tell this to Smith when he returns?" I questioned eagerly.

"Aye, and more than you have yet heard. The way in which Kendall spit his venom on Captain Smith was enough to make an honest man blush! But do you see the trick of it, Farraday? They send the captain off, and then they prepare this trap for him.'

At this, the black villainy of their plotting was made plain to me. They had sent Smith away, as Cassen said, that they might at their leisure scheme for his undoing. I doubted not there were men of the very worst sort in our company, who for a bribe would swear their own souls into perdition, but fortunately in going to Cassen, Wingfield seemed likely to perish in his own pitfall for the once.

As I looked beyond Cassen, who was standing facing me with his back to the wooded boundary of our field, I found my glance suddenly arrested by a pair of black piercing eyes; no more did I see than just those glittering, baleful eyes, that were peering at me fixedly from out a clump of low growing bushes not half a score of paces distant; whether it was animal or man I could not for the moment tave told, but as I looked I caught rather than saw, the stealthy movement of a naked body, a shaven crown with its single tuft of hair was raised somewhat, and then before I could speak or cry out there arose in the silence the most hideous and appalling uproar by which my ears had ever been assailed.

"The savages!" Cassen cried as he turned and bounded away.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Where but a moment before the afternoon sun had sent its shifting lights and shadows down all the empty ways of the silent forest, my eyes, now dwelling fascinated, saw in every direction the naked, gliding forms of the savages, hideous with paint; on every hand I caught the soft patter of their moccasined feet on the brown floor of the wood, and then mingling with the wild chorus of yells came the twang of bow strings and the arrow flight. Truly their stalking of us mnst have been rare sport.

I came quickly to my senses, and turning fled after Cassen; and as I ran I saw from end to end of the corn field our men casting aside their hoes as they betook themselves to flight. As Cassen and I had been standing at the further extremity of the field, we were among the very last to enter the bounds of the camp.

OVERLAND TRACK OPEN

DENVER, June 12.—For the first time in eight years, except for a brief attempt at racing three years ago, a race meeting will be held at the old Overland track here next Saturday. Running horses numbering 350 are here for the meeting which will continue until July 4.

The promoters plan a combination running and harness race meeting. The first six days the harness events will be on the program. Thereafter the cards will be made up of running events exclusively. This will be the first race meeting held under the new Colorado horse racing law, which licenses such events. Under the law parimutual betting is allowed. Overland track bookmaking was forbidden in 1906.

Forty-Six Cent Dollars

Any dollar you earn this month will buy no more than forty-six cents would buy just twenty years ago.

No matter what you may think of the present day cost of living—

THREE BALLOONS LOST IN CASCADES

Carrier Pigeon Brings Back Disturbing Message from Distance Soarers

PORTLAND, Ore., Jun 13.—United States forest rangers all over the Cascade mountains of Oregon were ordered today to search for three balloons which disappeared after starting from here Thursday for a distance flight.

As hours passed with no further word from the balloons Million Population club, Kansas City III and Springfield, apprehension grew that all may have come down in some wild region and they may have lost their way.

The only word from any of them was received from a carrier pigeon released by Million Population club. The bird carried a hastily scrawled note from George Y. Morrison, passenger on the air craft, saying that the Million Population club balloon had been struck by lightning, that Captain Berry of St. Louis bad been injured and that help was needed quickly. All that is known of the balloon's position is that the pigeon came flying home from the southeast. Its owner estimates it had flown 150 miles.

The other balloons also carried carrier pigeons but none of these had returned.

PUBLIC DEBATE

Trempealeau, Wis., May 25, 1914.
Editor Tribune:

I am enclosing clippings from your issue of the 23rd, giving government report of bumper crop of wheat for 1914, also market fluctuation caused by the receipt of said report an hour before closing of the gambling. These clippings follow:

"Washington, May 23.—Estimates given out today by the department of agriculture on the bumper wheat crop show that the total 1914 production, winter and spring wheat combined, may reach 880,000,000 bushels."

"Chicago, May 23.—An especially bearish government report on the wheat crop, issued an hour before the market closed today. Wheat closed ¼ to ½c under the opening."

The American Society of Equity has for years been trying to impress the department of agriculture that its monthly reports were an absolute and positive prohibition of any improvement or better conditions for the grain farmer especially that of wheat. Last fall the weather conditions were most favorable and the farmers improved their opportunity and put in an increased acreage and prepared the soil for the spring seeding. The favorable spring has given them a showing for successful production. But the government directory to a self appointed lot of board of trade gamblers are privileged to co-operate to defraud them of their well deserved and hoped for remuneration. Mr. Editor, there has been much talk the last years and just now strenuous efforts are being made to induce the farmers to increase acreage and yield per acre, with the result evidently hoped for to lower the cost of living to the producer at the expense of the farmer. And in the same breath we are assured that bumper crops increases prosperity Mr. Editor—the records show that under the government and gambler combine the bumper crops have put less money in circulation than the smaller ones, and the fact has been shown the farmers over and over again, that only a liberal price in a productive season promotes prosperity. It has been shown that the world's production of wheat is amazing and that with our present means of transportation, the price should not be lowered more than the price of transportation for the local surplus.

The effort of the A. S. of E. for years has been to get rid of monthly reports and board of trade fluctuations based thereon. It has been attempted several times, but under the old Republican graft rule it was squelched. LaFollette can be commended. I am wondering if Tom Morris will stand shoulder to shoulder with him. If they will contract with the farmers of the state and nation to put board of trade gamblers out of business they have practically the solid vote of the soil owners of this state and county for both senate and presidency.

Thus platforms are being written and the soil owners are listening.

HOLD HYPNOTIST FOR HIS CRUELTY

GARY, Ind., June 13.—Arthur Tracy, 18 year old boy who spent twenty-four hours waving his weary legs in the air in the belief that he was pedaling a bicycle, was to appear in court today to testify against W. B. Griffiths, traveling hypnotist, who put him to sleep and refusd to release him until threatened with imprisonment by Mayor Johnson. Griffiths hypnotized the boy at an exhibition Thursday night. The spectators were so amazed that the "professor" took the hypnotized Tracy to a show window, where he lay on his back, pedaling all day yesterday, despite protests by officers of the Gary Woman's club.

SUE OWNER OF RESORT

CHICAGO, June 13.—Washington Porter, millionaire real estate operator and clubman was to be arraigned in morals court today, charged with renting property for immoral purposes.

The complainant was Rev. E. L. Williams, north side vice crusader, who alleged that the Medinah hotel, located on property owned by Porter, is being used for immoral purposes.

Porter's attorneys requested more time, and the trial of the case was postponed until June 19.

VESSELS COLLIDE; SMALL HURT

NEW YORK, June 13.—Collision at sea between the Hamburg-American liner Pretoria and the American liner New York, was reported by wireless to the American line today. The message merely said that no one was injured and that the damage to the ships was light. Captain Roberts explained it was due to the fog. The two ships were thought to be about 175 miles off Nantucket.

The one thing that seems to grow more certain all the time is the fact that Huerta does not intend to resign.

SCHAMS-HAMMES

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Joseph's cathedral Tuesday morning June 9, at 9 o'clock, when Rev. Father Sluyter united in marriage Anna, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schams, to Mr. Joseph Hammes of Barre Mills. The bride wore a beautiful gown trimmed with shadow lace and pearl trimmings. She wore a veil and carried bride's roses.

Miss Martha Kreibich, cousin of the bridegroom, acted as maid of honor. She wore a gown of pink crepe silk with shadow lace trimming and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Miss Helen Wasmeier, cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. She wore a gown of light blue silk trimmed with lace and carried white carnations. The bride was attended by Frank Schamms, brother of the bride, and Mr. Edward Hammes, his brother.

A reception was given at the home of the bride where a weding breakfast was served to relatives. At three o'clock the orchestra played a wedding march and the bridal party led the buests to the dancing hall, which was trimmed with ferns and flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Hammes will make their home on a farm on La Crosse Ridge.

FAREWELL PICNIC

Miss Theresa Yanzer was the guest of honor at a picnic supper given by the employers of the Scott-Rose Co., at Myrick park Tuesday evening. Miss Yanzer will leave for Chicago Sunday evening, where she will take a course at the Dr. Lindlake Sanitarium.

SOCIAL BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fox of Chicago, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hunt at the Hotel La Crosse, will leave the first of the week for their home. Mrs. Fox is a sister of Mrs. Hunt and has made several visits to the city.

Mrs. Hiram Hegge of Moorhead, Minn., arrived for the homecoming and is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Herkin, at 222 South Eleventh street.

Mrs. F. A. Reiman and children, who have been spending a few weeks at Terre Haute, Ind., Mrs. Reiman's old home, have returned.

Mrs. Carl Noelke and children, who have been guests of Mrs. Noelke's parents, Judge and Mrs. O'Meara at West Bend, have returned after an absence of several weeks.

Miss Grace Capel is the guest of her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. G. B. Capel, and sister, Mrs. James Kerr, for the summer. Miss Capel has been teaching in Albion, where she is a member of the faculty of the state normal school.

Mrs. George Bradish and Mrs. R. B. Gelatt go today to Madison to attend commencement exercises of the university.

Mrs. Josephine Jones will leave tomorrow for Madison to be present at the graduation of her son, Howard Jones.

Miss Helen Hermann left Friday for Chicago to attend the commencement exercises of the Chicago conservatory of music, where her sister, Miss Florence Hermann, has been studying the past year.

Robert Keyes, who has been attending the Sweetwater, Tenn., military school, arrived this morning after having spent a couple of weeks with a schoolmate at Lima, Ohio.

U. S. COTTON REPORT

WASHINGTON, June 13.—A cotton crop report issued by the census bureau today shows 467,123 bales, exclusive of linters, consumed during May, compared with 481,993 in 1913, and 1,366,648 bales held in manufacturing establishments May 31, against 1,419,187 last year, and 947,230 bales in independent warehouses, compared with 895,573 in 1913.

May imports were 40,129 bales; exports, including linters, 393,572 bales. Cotton spindles active in May numbered 31,028,976 against 30,556,177 in May, 1913.

COUPLE BOTH TO DIE

LINCOLN, Neb., June 13. — Mrs. Ralph T. Eland, of this city, is dead, and Mr. Eland is believed to be dying today as a result of a series of accidents at their home last night. Mrs. Eland fell down stairs, and was killed. Mr. Eland hastened to aid her. Carrying an electric light globe he stepped into a pool of water, and the current was grounded through his body as a result of faulty insulation. His body was frightfully burned.

STRUCK BY BIG ICE CAKE.

GRAND RAPIDS, Wis., June 13. —E. C. Ketchum, ice merchant, was struck by a falling chunk of ice weighing 350 pounds, and seriously hurt. He was lowering the ice with a tackle, which gave way.

It is said the San Francisco exposition is about ready excepting for the choosing of a new name for the midway.

RULER OF MEXICO CHOSEN AT ONCE

Washington Believes that Provisional President Will Be Named by Mediators Middle of Next Week

CARRANZA CAN BLOCK PEACE PACT

Unexpected Development Only Thing Now that Can Stop the Settlement of Terms

WASHINGTON, June 13. — That the new provisional president of Mexico, who is to be aided by the South American-United States combination to bring order out of chaos, will be selected almost immediately, is believed certain here today. The substantial progress already made at Niagara Falls, has encouraged the belief that by the middle of next week Huerta will be out and the task of restoring order begun.

The administration is absolutely confident Carranza will agree to the tentative plan backed by this government and that fighting will end as soon as Huerta has formally turned over the presidential authority.

While it is admitted that some unexpected development, or a fit of stubbornness on the part of Carranza, might disrupt the program, this government is extremely hopeful nothing of the kind will take place. It is claimed that all Mexicans, even those of the Villa type, are tired of the constant strife.

Service Gives Up Hope

Army and navy officials, who have been ready for war to give them an opportunity to attain distinction, have given up hope. They are already figuring on the early return of the fleet and Funston's troops to this country.

Expect Carranza's Note

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 13. —The formal note of General Carranza, announcing his intention to send representatives to Niagara Falls and the conditions under which they will join in the peace parleys was expected by the A. B. C. mediators today.

With one of the big points in the general agreement, providing for the establishment of a provisional government to succeed General Huerta, definitely drawn up, however, it was not believed there would be any delay in the continuation of negotiations pending the arrival of the constitutionalists.

The latest generation of wimmen are washing the dishes of this country while the present gentration is drivin' the electrics.

JOHN RACKELMANN GOES TO REWARD

Resident Here Since Early '70's Dies at the Home of His Niece

John Rackelmann, one of the oldest and best known residents of the city, died this morning shortly before 7 o'clock at the home of his niece, Mrs. S. H. Palmer, 717 South Seventh street. Stomach trouble was the cause of death.

Mr. Rackelmann was born in Bavaria, Germany, 62 years ago. He came to this country in the early seventies, coming directly to La Crosse, where he engaged in the cattle buying business, later starting a sausage factory on Pearl street between Third and Fourth streets. He kept up the business until thirteen years ago, Then he retired.

Mr. Rackelmann was married to Mrs. John Bauer two years ago. Mrs. Rockelmann died six years ago.

Since retiring from active business thirteen years ago, Mr. Rackelmann made in all nine trips to Germany, where he spent much of his time. When in La Crosse, he lived with his niece, Mrs. Palmer.

Surviving are two step daughters, Mrs. John Neukom and Mrs. John Bauer of La Crosse; one niece, Mrs. S. H. Palmer, of La Crosse; three brothers, one in Tekoh, Washington, and two in Germany, and one sister in Germany.

Services will be held Monday afternoon at four o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Palmer, 717 South Seventh street. The body will be taken to Milwaukee night for cremation.

N. M. SCOTT IS OFF FOR LONG VACATION

Delayed for two days to put the last dot in the record of his work on the new "White Way" extension, N. M. Scott, accompanied by Mrs. Scott and their daughter, left at noon today over the C., M. & St. P. railway for Boston, Mass., where they will spend ten days. From Boston they will go to Providence, then to New York, thence to Prince Edward Island, the birthplace of Mrs. Scott, their destination. Mr. Scott will return August 1, and Mrs. Scott and daughter will remain until September 1.

CARD OF THANKS.

We herewith wish to extend our sincere thanks to all friends, relatives and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown during the illness and death of our mother, Mrs. Susanna Kathary. Especially do we thank Rev. E. Vornholt and choir of the German Reformed church, Frohsinn Singing society and all friends who sent floral offerings.

THE FAMILY.

FIFTH OF LORIMER BANKS IS CLOSED

Small State Bank of Calumet Fails to Open as Result of Trouble Yesterday

CHICAGO, June 13.—The State Bank of Calumet, the fourth smaller institution affected by the closing of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank yesterday failed to open its doors today and was put in the hands of the state bank examiner. Its deposits are less than $150,000.

Charles W. Novak, president, announced that state officials were given charge of the Calumet bank, at the request of the bank directors. He said he was positive that an examination would be followed by resumption of business. The bank's available cash was tied up when the big Lorimer banks suspended yesterday.

Bank Examiner Harkin said today that no more banks, to the best of his knowledge, would be closed because of the suspension of the Lorimer bank.

Crowds of anxious, tearful depositors today surged about the four Lorimer banks whose $4,000,000 in deposits were tied up when state bank examiners took charge yesterday, seeking some scraps of assurance from the bank officials to convince them that their savings have not been swept away. Police were busy early today ordering the crowd that began pushing against the doors to move on and not impede traffic.

The AshlandTwelfth State bank, in the heart of the Ghetto, was surrounded by a mob of angry, excited Jewish depositors, who struggled with the police, fought with each other and made vain attempts to enter the doors, over which hung the impressive sign, "under state supervision."

set, who with telling logic and deep feeling outlined that active and useful future which the association must have in order to perpetuate itself.

Roll Call

Ray L. Dickinson followed with a roll call of the classes, the members rising as the years were called. President Stephen Martindale responded as sole representative of '76, the first to be graduated, and Dr. McArthur responded for '77.

Mrs. McKee Entertains

Mrs. Samuel McKee, '84, with a "pretty wit" and a genius for narrative, indulged in humorous class history, and paid tribute to classmates and teachers, especially to Mr. Hardy and hte late W. R. Hemmenway. Fun, pathos and optimism came like April showers and sunshine in this clever address.

In Memoriam

Miss Norma Reichelt read a paper in memory of the late principal, Prof. W. R. Hemmenway; it was written by Mrs. A. G. Eddy, who added to the advantage of intimate ecquaintance with Mr. Hemmenway the results of painstaking study of his youth and his later history. The peper made a deep impression, especially among those who had been privileged to study under the fine old scholar and philosopher, with his quiet smile, stern devotion to duty as a teacher, and the tenderness and sympathy underneath the crust.

Resolutions formerly adopted by the association, and upon motion by Miss Geneve Caldwell, a portrait of Mr. Hemmenway were ordered framed and hung upon the walls of the assembly room.

Mr. Harold Beisel, '14, made a glowing case for the present graduating class, and kept the faculty and his schoolmates in an uproar of merriment by bright sallies at the expense of everybody but himself.

Mr. Hixon Pleased

A pleasant incident, came when Mr. Frank P. Hixon, who occupied a seat beside the toastmaster, was prevailed upon to contribute to the program. That he was having a pleasant evening was a fact that radiated from Mr. Hixon's personality as he rose to express his delight at being there and his hopes for the future of the school and the association, nor did the zest with which he later entered into the grand march leave anything wanting to emphasize the interest he felt.

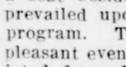

A duet by Miss Elinore Schweizer and Mr. Harry Hirshheimer, and a violin solo by Mr. Glen Halik accompanied by Miss Lois Halik, both received encores, and the musical program closed with the high school song by the entire company.

To Whom Credit is Due

In turning the office of president over to Miss Dorset, Mr. Martindale paid his compliments to his successor and Miss Grace Gesell by saying that these two ladies are entitled to credit for nearly all the progress which the association has made.

ENGLAND TRIES TO LIFT POLO TROPHY

Furious Action from Start Plan of Both Fours at Meadowbrook

MEADOWBROOK, L. I., June 13. Furious action from the first instant in an effort to "get" each other was predicted today as a certainty when the British and American fours clash here this afternoon for the international polo cup. A throng of 40,000 people, brilliant as any that ever gathered to watch an athletic event, was in the stands.

Hardluck Herbert

NEW YORK, June 13.—The man with the hardest luck in all the world, was the way polo enthusiasts here today described H. L. Herbert, chairman of the Polo association. For months Herbert worked night and day on details for the big match today at Meadowbrook. Today he is ill of ptomaine poisoning and will not see a play or hear a crack of mallet against the ball in the international struggle largely arranged by his effort.

Odds on U. S.

Before the batle the odds ranged from 10 to 7 to 10 to six that the Americans would win the match today, the rubber contest of all the battles for the cup in which the score stands England 3, American 3, since the first struggle in 1896.

From the camp of the challengers today came the report that the English players would not, as they have formerly done, start slow. By underground channels the word went out that from the instant the ball is put in play at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the British ponies will be sent over the ground at top speed.

Both Plan Alike

It was said that the plans of J. W. Waterbury, captain of the "Big Four," were also to strike quick and hard, throwing out every ounce of fighting energy on his team into an effort to smother the British before they struck their stride.

Long before the game was scheduled to start brightly colored automobiles were parked by hundreds about the 900 by 450 foot field where the battle would be fought. Flags were everywhere, the Red Crosses of Britain and the Stars and Stripes waving in a lternate splendor from the stands and marquees which ringed the field.

MYSTERY ABOUT DEATH OF GIRL

BALTIMORE, Md., June 13.—Whether Ella G. Winter, young, good looking and popular, was murdered or killed herself because she believed the man to whom she had given her entire affections had tired of her, may never be solved. The authorities admit they are groping in the dark.

D. Meredith Reese, Jr., wealthy lawyer, clubman and expert yachtsman, "the man in the case," suggests that the girl drowned herself. In the same breath he insists that he "never had any intention" of marrying the girl. The county authorities openly charge the girl was murdered.

The body of the girl was found floating in Curtis Bay early last Monday. The Thursday night before, she met Reese at a boat float and accompanied him in a launch to a resort. Reese says he landed the girl at a float from which she planned to board a car for home shortly afterward. Lee Miller, boat attendant at this particular float, says the girl did not land there. Her hat was found far to the northwest of where the body was picked up. It could not have floated there.

engagement and to marry him. Upon my refusal he said he would kill himself. He had made the threat so often that I didn't believe him. The next I heard he had shot himself in a Chicago hotel."

Attorney Comes Here

It was but recently, according to Mrs. Fuchsel, that Attorney James W. Howell, Chicago, came here and informed her that she was the sole beneficiary. The estate, he assured her, would total at least $38,000,000 and possibly more.

"I don't understand much about those things," she said today, "but he said they had to appraise it. That the work was difficult because most of the money was tied up in stocks and bonds. Mr. Hartford, I knew at the time I was going with him, was immensely wealthy and he often told me that he would give me all his money if I married him. I didn't pay much attention to it, however.

How to Spend It?

"What am I going to do with all that money? Oh, I don't know. Guess I'll have a good time and then probably live here. I haven't made any plans as yet."

Mrs. Fuchsel, it is said, has another inheritance coming. It consists of several hundred marks and was bequeathed to her by a relative in Germany. Attorney A. H. Schubert is now investigating it.

PARKS AND AUTOES ARE CAUSES OF VICE

Women Policemen, Supervision of Dance Halls and Eugenic Law for Women Are Advocated

MADISON, Wis., June 13.—Women policemen for dance hall supervision and control of youth on city streets; stricter enforcement of curfew ordinances; greater supervision of parks; curbs on promiscuous joyriding; application of the eugenic marriage law to women; and, above all, continued education as to the degenerating influence of the double standard of morals were all recommended as additional safeguards against vice, by witnesses before the anti-vice committee of the Wisconsin legislature Friday. Dr. J. W. Quinn, humane officer for Dane county, declared that when men of intelligence and morals in Madison openly advocate several public houses in the city, the need of a vice committee is absolute.

The Madison Officials

Chairman Teasdale was annoyed by the fact that local officials refused to appear without subpoena. Madison was the first city, he said, where it had been necessary to resort to this ultimate authority.

The Rev. Father P. B. Knox of St. Patrick's church, and the Rev. E. G. Updike of the First Congregational church, endorsed the suggestion of women policemen. Father Knox said extreme styles of women's dress are immodest and suggestive.

Club Workers Testify

Several women social workers testified to bad local conditions. Bad street lighting, especially at street ends, was blamed for much trouble. They endorsed the eugenics marriage law, favored women policemen and urged stricter supervision of moving picture houses. One, who places girls in positions in Madison, said so much trouble had been encountered through relations of domestics with students that she has adopted the rule not to send female help to fraternity houses. The craving for amusement and excitement after working hours was given as a primary cause of delinquency.

The Rural Schools

Moral conditions surrounding rural and village schools were discussed by W. E. Larson, state inspector of rural schools, and J. B. Borden, assistant state superintendent.. Some of the worst conditions were found in smaller places, said Mr. Larson. Trouble comes because local authorities, afraid to cause friction by accusing anybody, allow the conditions to continue unabated. State laws prescribing penalties or withholding public aid were advised to remedy such situations.

Mr. Borden suggested legislation requiring county school boards to provide suitable outbuildings, properly constructed, screened and located, under penalty of losing the district's share of state aid. Moral conditions in the schools are generally good, he believed. Outside activities often led to improper actions, and he would require official supervision of school dances. He opposed the practice in some districts, noted by Senator Teasdale, of holding school dances in halls over saloons. Mr. Borden also condemned a custom of allowing school delegations to go to another city for interscholastic declamatory or other contests, remaining over night without any real supervision. Reprehensible conduct on such occasions should be ground for expulsion, he said.

About Sex Hygiene

Questioned on the sex hygiene question, Mr. Borden said:

"Until sex hygiene can be taught in the school by persons of maturity of mind, age and experience, and by specially trained teachers, it is unwise to teach it in the schools."

"The enforcement of laws of the state, and especially vice and excise laws, is directly up to the governor. The creation of a vice commission is unnecessary."

This was the statement made by Dr. William Allen of the New York bureau of municipal research, here conducting the university survey, before the legislative vice commission.

Chairman Teasdale asked him what they were going to do if the governor refused to enforce the laws.

Up to Officials

'If he is given the facts it would be political suicide for him to fail to enforce them," said Dr. Allen. "No majority, however large, in any city of the state has the right to force bad government on a minority, however small. It is up to the state oficers to protect the minority.

"There is practically no foundation for these vice crusades that are sweeping the country," said Dr. Allen. "The greater part of the agitation is an aethetic revulsion from some of the sordid features of vice, rather than a sincere attempt to secure reform. Men and women are indulging themselves in the discussion of the social evil, and are becoming seeped in morbidness. All of his discussion from the pulpit and in women's clubs is going to leave a stain.

"People can talk themselves black in the face about the diseases of the traffic or the sordidness of vice and it won't make a dent. It is from the human side that the problem must be solved."

ED LUETH, JR., IS OUT FOR SHERIFF

Ed. Lueth, Jr., today announced himself as a candidate for sheriff of La Crosse county, to succeed John Weber. Lueth's papers are being circulated today.

Lueth is a republican. He has never run for office before, and is a comparative newcomer in politics, he said. He is the nephew of former Sheriff Henry Lueth.

His platform, he said, is strict enforcement of the law.

SIX MEN THOUGHT VOLCANO VICTIMS

California Crater Erupts and Moving Picture Men and Five Others Are Caught

REDDING, Cal., June 13.—Grave fears are felt today for the safety of six men known to have been near the summit of Mount Lassen during the fierce eruption of that volcano yesterday afternoon. The crater in the side of the mountain rained hot stones all over the vicinity, possibly killing all the members of the party. It will probably be many hours, however, before the fate of the men can be determined, owing to the remoteness of the mountain. Forest rangers have been sent out to search for them.

The men are: Forest Ranger R. H. Abbey, J. Ayres, moving picture employe; Bert Hampton, Walter Stoll, Floyd Buffom and H. J. Cook, residents of neighboring towns.

The crater is again in eruption today, the outbreak being pronounced the most violent yet. Ashes fell on the forest supervisors' station at Mineral, sixteen miles away. The supervisor is rushing to the scene. Heretofore he has maintained that Mount Lassen's eruption was not volcanic but merely the manifestation of a geyser. Today he admitted for the first time that it is probably a real volcano.

out the company from any further contracts with the city be stricken out. The resolution was unanimously so amended and then passed.

A resolution was presented to the council, asking that they appropriate $2,500 for the erection of a suitable market building in the market square. The resolution proposed that the building be leased to the local market association, with the privilege on the part of the city of terminating the lease for cause. The resolution further asked for a special meeting of the council, at which plans for the market can be laid before the aldermen. The resolution was referred.

Alderman Mahoney read a resolution from the La Crosse Woman's club, declaring Copeland park neglected, and requesting that lights be put in to "add respectability" at night. The resolution also asked that a number of improvements be made in the park. After reading the resolution, Alderman Mahoney offered a resolution embodying the changes asked by the woman's club, which was referred.

A number of streets and alleys were ordered laid out and opened last night. A number of sewer ordinances were also passed.

WILL INCORPORATE TO SECURE MARKET

A. A. Bentley Makes Public Plans to Get Best Results from Proposed Plan of Public Market

The La Crosse Market association is to be incorporated. This is according to a statement made this morning by A. A. Bentley, the man who first suggested the market plan, and who has been greatly interested in it ever since.

Must Have Help

The city council was asked to erect the building last evening, and the association proposes to rent it from the city at a sum equal to six per cent of the cost per year.

"If the city council will not give us this money it is impossible to say what we will do,' said Mr. Bentley. "It is necessary that we have some assistance in this matter.

City Control Market

"With the city owning the building it would be possible for them to control the market. By the terms of our contract they could terminate the lease within 90 days. That means that the city would have complete control of the situation and that no private or personal interests would be permitted to enter into the management."

Need Good Building

Mr. Bentley said that everyone in the city will have an opportunity to subscribe to the stock in the market. "We will spend all the money possible on the building," he explained, "for the better the building the better the chances for sucess. If we can have a $5,000 building, so much the better."

All officers of the association are to be elected after the incorporation is made, including the manager of the market. If Mr. Bentley is the manager, he will be elected, and will take his chances for the office with any others who may desire to become candidates.

Garbers are members of the committee in charge.

VIVIANI SUCCEEDS RIBOT

PARIS, June 13.—Rene Viviani, today accepted a commission from President Poincaire to attempt formation of a cabinet to replace that of Alexandre Ribot, who resigned yesterday.

SOME OF THE NEWEST FROCKS SHOW THE DRAPERY DRAWN TO THE BACK

Two distinguishing details of the afternoon frock shown in 8395-8392, are the flaring Japanese collar and the Russian or Cossack tunic, slightly draped about the hips and giving a suggestion of the Apron effect of Premet. This is an excellent model for taffetas, foulard or one of the sheer cottons; eyelet embroidery may be used for trimming as shown here or one of the heavy linen laces.

Cream colored cotton voile is used here with eyelet collar and trimming bands and a double row of crystal buttons to close it down the front.

To copy this model in size 36, 5¾ yards of 36-inch material is needed. Pale blue taffetas fashions 8404; the puffed drapery on the back of the skirt is held in place with bands of chiffon roses and the overskirt shows the latest tendency to "hike" up in back. The simplicity of the bodice is another style detail of the season.

This is a charming design for afternoon wear, summer dances, etc., and may be made up in any of the soft silks or cottons, quite as effectively as in taffetas.

Size 36, requires 6 yards of 36-inch material.

The small frock shown in 8409, shows how charmingly the pannier may be applied to childrens' dresses without appearing too "fussy." A Japanese collar is another "grown-up" feature which may be used appropriately.

A flowered cotton crepe fashions this little dress with trimming bands of plain white voile. For a child of 12, the dress requires 2⅝ yards of 36-inch material. Taffetas is one of the few silks considered good taste for the little maid; it could be used here very effectively if the dress were intended for "dress-up" occasions.

No. 8395, sizes 34 to 42.
No. 8392, sizes 22 to 30.
No. 8404, sizes 34 to 42.
No. 8409, sizes 8 to 14.

CALL LOCAL MAN IN EASTERN ROW

A spectacular and bitter legal battle between two state medical boards of Pennsylvania, with Attorney Fred H. Hartwell of this city in charge of one side, is occupying the courts of Philadelphia at the present time. Mr. Hartwell left for Philadelphia last evening to prepare for the preliminary skirmish.

For some years there has been an Osteopathic board in the state created by act of legislature. Last winter a new law was enacted creating a bureau of medical education and licensure. The Osteopathic board is now seeking to curtail the rights of the new board on the ground that their duties overlap those of the old board.

Mr. Hartwell has been called in to co-operate with the Philadelphia lawyers for the new board.

BOARD PROCEEDINGS CAUSE BIG MUDDLE

MADISON, Wis., June 13.—Attorney General Walter C. Owen, in an opinion to District Attorney Thomas C. Downs of Fond du Lac county, today held that under the resolution passed by the Fond du Lac county board its proceedings cannot be published in the English language in a German newspaper. This state statute requires that even though the proceedings are published in a paper published in the foreign language it must also be published in a newspaper of the English language also.

People wonder at the great vigor of Richard Olney, former secretary of state, but it should be remembered that Richard is a Democrat and has not had very much to do the past twenty years.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Nervous Emotional Dizzy Depressed ?

WOMEN who are restless, with constant change of position, "fidgetiness," who are abnormally excitable or who experience fainting or dizzy spells, or nervous headache and wakefulness are usually sufferers from the weaknesses of their sex.

DR. PIERCE'S Favorite Prescription

is the soothing, cordial and womanly tonic that brings about an invigorating calm to the nervous system. Overcomes the weakness and the dragging pains which resemble the pains of rheumatism. Thousands of women in the past forty years can bear witness to its benefits.

Mrs. Addie Curtsinger of Cedar St., Cairo, Ill., writes Dr. R. V. Pierce as follows:

"I send 21 cents for your 'Common Sense Medical Adviser' for my daughter who has recently married and I know the book will be of much value to her. I have read and used for 25 years the valuable treatments contained in the 'Medical Adviser' and have taken many bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and have been restored to health each time I used it. It is a great remedy for women as a strength builder, fine for the nerves and general health."

Your dealer in medicines sells it in liquid or sugar-coated tablet form; or you can send 50 one-cent stamps for a trial box of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription tablets. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets Regulate and Invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels, Sugar-Coated Tiny Granules.

MRS. LYON'S ACHES AND PAINS

Have All Gone Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS LYON, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known. From the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womankind a remedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized from coast to coast as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and in some cases that it has saved them from surgical operations.

CHURCH NEWS

Many Conventions to be Held in Frisco.

Three thousand conventions, with organizations behind them having aggregate memberships of more than 5,000,000 persons, have already arranged for dates during the Panama Exposition in San Franscisco next year. These represent almost all uplift causes and efficiency advances. Religion and education leads in numbers. It is by far the greatest number of conventions ever held during an exposition. Arrangements for conventions are far in excess of any previous ones in matter of convenience, and in exhibits of work accomplished by organizations.

In order that the greatest good may be had in the shortest time the conventions are being grouped. In April congresses having to do with public health will be held. July will be devoted to education and September to engineering and technical conventions. The other months are being parcelled out, and dates fixed on this plan. Not fewer than twenty conventions will be in session on every day the Exposition is open.

Sunday School Workers To Meet in Chicago.

Twenty thousand Sunday school experts and enthusiasts are expected in Chicago during the last week of this month to take part in the fourteenth international convention of Christian educational workers. This convention is arranged by those leaders who follow the International Lessons, and largest measure represent Presbyterian, Congregational, Methodist and Baptist churches. One hall seating 4,800 is to be used exclusively for delegates, but many other halls and churches have been secured, and simultaneous meetings will be held in great numbers.

The watchword of this convention is to be efficiency in Sunday School work. A program covering nine years will be proposed and probably adopted for schools of the continent. Committees of seven from each of the International executive committee and the Sunday School Council form a joint committee to carry forward this proposed efficiency campaign. There are to be put forth efforts for better trained teachers, better organizations, and the putting into Sunday Schools of special subjects like missions, temperance and evangelism.

Y. M. C. A. Makes Striking Advance.

The striking advance of the Y. M. C. A. just now is in the so-called industrial department. This department carries Association work to operatives in lumber and cotton mills, steel works and coal mines, and employs as far as possible students in colleges to do the work, always under direction of a trained secretary. The student aim is both to get work done at as little cost as possible, and also to enlarge the sympathies and experience of men who are likely, later in life, to be employers of labor, and in control of industrial concerns.

GREECE THREATENS WAR

ATHENS, Greece, June 13.—Wild cheering in the Greek chamber of deputies today greeted a stand by Premier Venizelos, which practically amounted to a threat of war against Turkey. He was discussing the treatment of Hellenes in the Ottoman empire.

Hank Tumms says the old-fashioned man who paid cash for everything he got is about as much of a back number as the hoop skirt or the high wheeled bicycle.

THE RELIGIOUS RAMBLER

Plan of Friends to Open School for Training Members, a Noteworthy Departure In the History of American Quakerism.

No religious body is more alert to the changing times than the Society of Friends, especially that branch commonly called Hicksites. It has faced a declining membership with courage and resourcefulness, and with singular independence, and adapted itself to the new order of life by new methods.

Now the most radical step of all, one which seems to countervene the traditional position of the Society of Friends, has been taken in the workers in the Society. It is principally designated as a school for religious and social study, patterned on the lines of the famous Friends' school at Woodbrooke, England, to which members of the society from all over the world have made pilgrimages.

The beautiful property, capable of sheltering the warden and his wife and twenty-six students, has been purchased in Swarthmore, adjacent to Swarthmore College, and sessions will be opened on October 1.

Seven Yearly Meetings Support It.

All the seven yearly meetings of the Hicksite Friends are supporting the enterprise.

The Committee for the advancement of Friends' principles, which works under the general conference of the seven yearly meetings, is immediately responsible for the new made up of representatives of all the yearly meetings. Barclay Spicer the editor of the Friends' intelligencer, is the chairman of the committee, and Henry Wilbur is the secretary.

The name of the new school has not been finally been determined, but it will probably be "The John Woolman Hall."

The priveleges of the new institution will not be confined to the membership of the denomonation which maintains it; but Orthodox Friends and members of other churches will be invited. There will be little or no doctrinal teaching. The purpose is to stress the factors and forces which unite Christians, rather than those which divede.

The students will be mostly the younger Friends who have qualifications. Those who can attend for a period of a few weeks, or months, will be welcome. No tuition will be charged, but merely the board, and the only cost will be for entertainment in the school. In a sense, it may be looked upon as a vacation school. For those who will be able to be away from their usual calling for a period, will regard this sojurn in a beautiful country residence as a real vacation.

Not a Theological Seminary.

While this present article is the first publication of the news of this enterprise, a statement has been privately made among those who are but vaguely informed of the movement that the Society of Friends is establishing a theological seminary. This rumor sends chills down the spines of the members of the committee, who say that the Society has by no means abdicated its historical testimony against a "hireling ministry". This is not a school for the training of ministers, although it will inevitably have an effect upon those who speak in meeting. The primary aim is to lift the general level of interest and efficiency on the part of the members of the society.

The courses given will be in Bible study, social service, methods for Firstday Schools, (even to this day Sunday Schools are unknown in many Quacker meetings, especially among the Orthodox Friends), peace temperance and missions. This branch of the Society of Friends has no foriegn mission work, but when it is interested in the subject there may be developments along this line.

An Unworthy Cause

A story is told of a "printer's error" that once caused consternation in a country village. An arch in the church had become dilapidated and a fund was started for its repair. Upon one occasion, so as to make the appeal more widely known, the rector had a notice regarding the arch fund printed in the village with the result that on the following Sunday the announcement appeared in large type:

"The collection today will be for the arch fiend."

Wouldn't be Imposed Upon

An American visiting London for the first time, goaded to desperation by the incessant necessity for tips, entered the wash room of his hotel only to be faced with a large sign which read: "Please tip the basin after using." "I'm hanged if I will!" said the Yankee, turning on his heel. "I'll go dirty first!"

He Made His Mark.

"Professor, what has become of Tom Appleton? Wasn't he studying with the class last year?"

"Ah, yes! Appleton, poor fellow! A fine student, but absent minded in the use of chemicals—very. That discoloration on the ceiling—notice it?

"Yes."

"That's Tom."

"I'm not surprised. I always said Tom would make his mark if he got a chance."

TAKE BIRD CENSUS GOVERNMENT PLAN

Want to Determine Pairs of Birds in Each Species; Trained Observers to Do the Work

WASHINGTON, June 13.—A bird census of the United States is the latest suggestion from the United States department of agriculture. The counting should begin this month and every bird lover throughout the country is invited to assist.

In the announcement the department says: "The object is to determine how many pairs of birds of each species breed within definite areas. By comparing these figures with those of subsequent censuses it will be possible to ascertain whether the present state and federal laws are effective and game and insectivorous birds increasing or diminishing in numbers. Voluntary observers are relied upon to furnish most of the desired data to the department."

The first step of the department was to ask 250 of its correspondents to act as census agents in different localities. They will select their trained observers and, following an outline of information furnished by the department, will take the census.

Correspondents will be asked to select fairly representative territory in their localities and to note, among other things the kinds of and pairs of birds actually nesting within a restricted plot. And the census takers are warned not to include birds which come into that territory simply for breeding purposes.

Each correspondent is asked to go out early in the morning to count the male birds—for that is the hour they do most of their singing. Suffrage is to bear no part in the bird counting, however, for the department has decided that after migration is over and the birds are settled in their summer quarters "it is safe to consider that each male represents a breeding pair."

Return From Canada

Reasons for the return of many American farmers who migrated to Canada, attracted by the big wheat crops possible there, are found in a report of a commission appointed by the Province of Saskatchewan. The cost of growing wheat in that province during the last was found to be 55 cents a bushel, or 62 cents f. o. b. at country points. This leaves a mighty slim margin, according to the department of agriculture, for farmers to gain a profit.

The long, rigorous winters have also proven too much for Americans in many instances and numbers are asking for certificates which will permit the return to the United States of their household effects.

The cost of producing wheat in Sasketchewan, the Canadian provincial commission found, has increased over 12 per cent since 1909, and the price has decreased since that time from 81½ cents a bushel to 66⅛ cents in 1913, leaving the farmer a profit of only 4⅛ cents a bushel.

Percheron Favorite

Percherons are the favorite breeding horses imported by American breeders, according to recently gathered statistics just made public by the department of agriculture. Next in favor for importation are Belgium horses, with Clydesdale "also ran."

In 1913 882 Percheron stallions and 600 mares were imported. Of Belgiums, 621 stallions and 362 mares were brought across the water to this country, while only 45 Clydesdale stallions and 29 mares were imported last year, while 128 Shire stallions and 57 Shire mares were brought in. The total importation for the year of high bred horses were 1,733 stallions, including ponies, and 1,264 mares.

New Jap Vegetable

"Udo" is the name of a new Japanese vegetable imported by the department of agriculture. It is especially adapted to Maryland, where extensive experiments have been made with the vegetable, and all parts of New England, as well as Atlantic coast states as far south as the Carolinas.

Book on Goat

A very interesting and valuable booklet, on the Angora goat, with hints to raisers or prospective breeders, has recently been issued by the department of agriculture.

VOICE BUILDING

JOSEPH SHEEHAN, the famous tenor who comes to the La Crosse Theatre Tuesday June 16 says: "If you are consumptive, sing: or, if you think that you are drifting into consumption. I do not advance the ridiculous claim that singing alone will save you or cure you, but it is one of the essentials if one wishes to bring about the result. Singing means deep breathing, and personally I have never heard of a singer being consumptive.

"I know personally, of very few actors who have died of consumption during the last 20 years. Now this is remarkable when you take into consideration the long jumps, waiting at junction stations at all times of night and day, in all sorts of weather, and this crowned with the idiotic heating of the railroad cars, with doors wide open one moment and the next the cars like a fiery furnace. Again, the actors have to endure draughts on the stage, poorly ventilated dressing rooms, often playing in tights with the thermometer down to freezing point. Yet, notwithstanding all these health-breaking experiences the actor, at the end of the season is still on the job.

"The singer and actor, on account of his profession, becomes a professional breather. Air is life, voice is air and tone-production is the ability to manage air. I firmly believe that if our children in schools were taught to breathe properly, in fact, were prevented from being taught improperly, one-half or more of the dreaded white plague victims would disappear. We now take care of our children's teeth in school, why not their lungs?

"As voice is the result of air, by enlarging that voice more air is required, more lung power is developed, more oxygen used, and the membrane of the throat strengthened to resist the germs of tuberculosis or any other disease.

"Laugh and the world laughs with you—weep and you weep alone. Sing and all the world will hum the tune," is the advice of Sheehan.

Although California has had for more than 10 years a law authorizing concolidation of schools, consolidation is not looked upon with favor, according to J. C. Muerman, an official of the Bureau, who is now stationed in the southwest. Two of the schools visited by Mr. Muerman had only 6 pupils enrolled. The teachers received $70 a month. Both schools had good libraries.

NOTICE OF SALE.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a judgment of partition and sale, rendered in the Circuit Court for La Crosse County, Wis., on the 28th day of March, 1914, in an action for partition wherein Jennie Simonson is the plaintiff and Abel M. Jostad and others are defendants, the undersigned referee, for that purpose appointed, will, at the east front door of the Courthouse at the City of La Crosse, in the County of La Crosse, and State of Wisconsin, on the 17th day of June, 1914, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day, offer for sale and sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder for cash, the real estate directed by said judgment to be sold, lying and being in the County of La Crosse and State of Wisconsin, and described as follows: The Southeast quarter (SE¼) of the Northeast quarter (NE¼), and the Northeast quarter (NE¼) of the Northeast quarter (NE¼) of Section seven (7), and the Southwest quarter (SW¼) of the Northwest quarter (NW¼) of Section eight (8), all in Township seventeen (17), North of Range six (6) West. Also the Southwest quarter (SW¼) of the Northeast quarter (NE¼) and the Northwest quarter (NW¼) of the Southeast quarter (SE¼) the Southeast quarter (SE¼) of the Northwest quarter (NW¼) and the Northeast quarter (NE¼) of the Southwest quarter (SW¼), all in Section seven (7), Township seventeen (17), North of Range Six (6) West, and every right, title, and interest therein, including the said rights of dower of the said defendants Anna Jostad, Emma Jostad and Nannie Jostad.

Said lands contain two hundred eighty acres more or less—and every right, title and estate in said real estate and every part thereof.

Dated April 11, 1914.

SOLD

This week, house 1933 Wood street and House 1216 Livingston Street.

Still my list of properties is growing. I have houses of every description and price for sale and numerous vacant lots, some on Cass street, that are very cheap. Also some fine farms, and I have discovered the ideal place for a summer home, 20 minutes' ride from the city. There are no mosquitoes or other pests to bother one at this place, as the beautiful springs coming from the hills keep it too cool for them to thrive. These springs are alive with trout and there is good river fishing and bathing near this place. If interested in anything of this kind, my car will call for you and I will show you these properties.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, June 13.—Fear of wet harvests southwest and of flood damage northwest drove wheat prices up a fraction at the start today and caused further advance of ⅛ to ⅜c in the brief Saturday session. Wheat was lower at Liverpool.

Cables were bullish on corn today and offerings were light. Prices were a shade to ¼c higher at the start and advanced ¼ to ⅜c before the close.

Oats was up a shade on the bulge in the other grains, but September futures declined ⅜c under liberal selling.

Trade in provisions was hardly active enough to set prices, but the trend was toward lower levels.

NEWS of the SPORT WORLD

MORAN IS AFTER JOHNSON'S SCALP

Black Training Hard for Bout at Paris This Month; Odds for Johnson; Moran Sure

PARIS, June 13.—That Frank Moran, the Pittsburg fighter, may have a chance to win the battle here with Jack Johnson for the heavyweight championship of the world on June 27, today began to bring out a little money on the white man's chances. Betting as yet is light but some money at 10 to 6 has been put up in the American colony and French enthusiasts in theboxing game, too, are beginning to bet against the black.

Continued statements issued from the Johnson camp claiming that the negro will be in the best condition and that the Americans who want to "dance around his scalp" will be disappointed have created a feeling that the negro protests too much and that, possibly, he is not responding to training as well as might be desired.

Moran is training hard at his quarters near the city but is saying little. He appears confident, however, and it is known that his close friends here are beginning to put down a little money on his chances of victory.

SPENCER HIGH GUN.

SEDALIA, Mo., June 13.—George L. Spencer of St. Louis was high professional gun when the Missouri Sportsmen's association concluded its annual shoot here yesterday. Spencer broke 486 out of 500 targets. W. E. Mulford of Kirksville broke 481 out of 500. George Nicholi of Kansas City broke 96 out of 100 targets in the regular handicap shoot.

WILSON TO CLASS REUNION

WASHINGTON, June 13. Throwing aside official cares for a day, President Wilson left here at 8 o'clock to join in the graduation exercises at Princeton university. It was not as the president, or even as former president of Princeton, but merely as "Wilson, '79," that the chief executive joined in the college frolics. The president planned to march in the college parade, attend the Yale-Princeton baseball game and latera reunion of the class of '79.

BADGERS ON HUDSON

GO INTO CAMP BELOW COURSE; MEN BEAR TRIP WELL; PRACTICE TODAY

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 13.—Coach Vail and his squad of Wisconsin oarsmen arrived at Highland Thursday afternoon, completing the rowing colony of oarsmen entered for the intercollegiate regatta. The Syracuse and the Washington crews reached here earlier in the day.

The Badgers went into seclusion almost as soon as they arrived. Their headquarters are five and a half miles below the regatta course, and after rigging their shells at the Washington boathouse they embarked and started on their row to the solitude of Milton: Harry Vail said that his men had stood the trip exceptionally well and that he did not have the usual crops of boils to report.

This was the only row the Wisconsin men had today, but Vail said their real practice on the Hudson would be begun tomorrow.

"U" HIGH FAVORITE.

CHICAGO, June 13.—University high school of Chicago was generally picked to win Stagg's annual interscholastic track and field meet, which attracted athletes from high schools and preparatory schools to the University of Chicago field this afternoon.

Schools from coast to coast were represented. Dallas, Texas; Santa Rosa, Cal.; Sioux City, Iowa, and Des Moines, Iowa, sent crack men, and many middle western institutions were represented by squads. A football game was to be staged by Stagg's spring football practice squad.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

BY HAL SHERIDAN

Hazy hurling on both sides featured the Giant-Cub combat yesterday, six pitchers handing out thirteen walks and five wild pitches.

Heinie Zimmerman performed less than three innings before his brand new bride when he was chased for barking at the umps.

Pitcher Koestner, closed by the Cubs to Cincinnati, neld the Phillies hitless for the last four innings after Ames was chased.

Eddie Collins' four singles helped the Macks take the third game of the series from the Naps.

Bush's triple in the first, followed by a sacrifice, gave the win over a Rankin Johnson, Red Sox star recruit.

Covaleski held the Red Sox to two singles.

Doc Ayres' pills upset the White Sox, the Senators meanwhile mauling Russell for five runs.

Honus Wagner stacked two more hits on top of his 3,000 heap yesterday.

A passed ball allowed Whitted of the Cardinals to score the winning run in a sixteen round engagement with the Dodgers.

Cy Falkenburg went out and grabbed another for the Indianapolis Federals, the Pittsburg rebels getting the licking.

Suggs set Chifeds down without a run, Baltimore taking a little longer lead from the Fed race.

MOTOR BOAT MEN MUST READ LAW

If you own a motor boat, you had better look up the United States laws pertaining to water transportation. Otherwise you may be forced to pay a fine of from $100 to $600. The new regulations require that motor boats be equipped with life preservers for all on board; a fire extinguisher, copies of pilot rules, a whistle or bell and a light if used at night.

Studebaker
ECONOMICAL LIGHT WEIGHT SIX
$1575

The manufactured Studebaker SIX gives you quality and value that the assembled "Six" can never attain.

The one incorporates perfection of alignment and balance, due to Studebaker-manufactured parts, necessarily foreign to the other.

That means elimination of vibration and perfect roadability, in the Studebaker SIX.

Great volume of Studebaker SIX production means manufacturing economies, and resultant quality, that the assembler cannot meet by increased production or lowered prices.

Heat treated steels, manufactured parts in greater proportion than any other car, spell value in the Studebaker SIX greater than in any other car at any price—assembled or manufactured.

Send for the Studebaker Proof Book, describing Studebaker manufacturing methods.
